An absolutely rigid bracket with a spring on one side rests on a hinged beam. At what distance a should a point force F be applied so that the bracket does not tilt? The length of the beam  $\ell$ , the bending rigidity EJ (constant along the beam length) and the spring stiffness coefficient  $k = \frac{EJ}{\ell^3}$  are known.

